

DOUGLAS REYNOLDS GALLERY

ROD SMITH
SPY HOP KILLER WHALE SCULPTURE

$1,100.00 CAD

| | |
|-------------------|----------------|
| Dimensions | 7.25 × 7.75 in |
| Depth | 8" |
| Height | 7.75 |
| Width | 7.25 |
| Medium | Wood, Acrylic |

These works are hand-painted and designs may vary from piece to piece.

Killer Whales are widely considered clan ancestors. Living in human form in undersea villages, killer whales are often thought to be the reincarnations of great chiefs and are associated with wealth, unity and travel. Some prominent characteristic traits of Killer Whale are a rounded snout, blowhole, a dorsal fin, pectoral fins and a tail.

The term 'Spy Hop' refers to the action when Killer Whales bob near the surface of the water, 'spying' on their surroundings.